I. The Substantial Claims Of The California Putative Class

Call For Independent Representation

4 This is a Reply Memorandum to the Opposition to EMW, Inc's Motion For Appointment As 5 Counsel For California Indirect Purchaser Subgroup. Our Motion is brought in a collegial 6 spirit, not an adversarial one, for our ultimate goals are the same. In Klay v. Humana, Inc.
7 382 F.3d 1241 (11th Cir. 2004), the lead case cited by Mr. Lehmann's Opposition 8 ("Lehmann"), the Court "affirm[ed] the district court's certification of the plaintiff's federal 9 claims [RICO and ERISA]...and reverse[d] the district court's certification of the plaintiff's 10 state claims," (at p.1246) despite allegations of a nationwide conspiracy by HMOs to 11 underpay doctors. The Klay court found that counsel's failure to address "groupability" 12 through subclassing doomed all of the state claims except the unchallenged California 13 Subclass, but the Klay Court recognized that state law subclasses could have been certified 14 based on "groupability," - "showing uniformity or the existence of only a small number of 15 applicable standards...among the laws of the fifty states...," stating (at p.1262): 16

“Similarly, if the applicable state laws can be sorted into a small number of groups, each containing materially identical legal standards, then certification of subclasses embracing each of the applicable legal standards can be appropriate. See e.g. Krell v. Prudential Ins. Co. of Am., 148 F.3d 283, 315 (3d Cir. 1998) (“Courts have expressed a willingness to certify nationwide classes on the ground that relatively minor differences in state law could be overcome at trial by grouping similar state laws together and applying them as a unit.”); Walsh v. Ford Motor Co., 807 F.2d 1000, 1017 (D.C. Cir. 1986) (holding that class certification is appropriate where ‘variations [in state law] can be effectively managed through creation of a small number of subclasses grouping the states that have similar legal doctrines’). In such a case, of course, a court must be careful not to certify too many groups.

1       If more than a few of the laws of the fifty states differ, the judge would face 2       an impossible task of instructing a jury on the relevant law... In re Am. Med. Sys., 3       75 F.3d 1069, 1085 (6th Cir. 1996)."

4       Certification of an unchallenged California Subclass was left standing. That the substantial 5       California Subclass was the only state law class left standing in Klay v. Humana, Inc., supra, 6       indicates that California Indirect Purchasers would be well served to have independent 7       interim counsel. By contrast, in the instant case, natural subclassing is established in the 8       Eliasoph complaint: 1) California-Second and Third Claims 2) Other State Antitrust Claims-9       Fourth Claim and 3) Other State Consumer Claims-Fifth Claim. Since California represents 10       at least 35% and probably 50% of the repealer state populations and substantial potential 11       claims, it deserves to be independently represented. The recovery for California claimants in 12       In re Microsoft was valued at $1,1 Billion, and Mr. Girardi obtained a $1.87 Billion 13       settlement for California ratepayers in the Sempra Energy Case and a $1.5 Billion recovery 14       for California rate payers in the El Paso Natural Gas Case.

17       Absent employment of the "groupability," doctrine, the Seventh Circuit in the Matter of 18       Rhone-Poulenc 51 F.3d 1293, 1300 (7th Cir. 1995) reversed the certification of a nationwide 19       class of product negligence claimants under state laws over concerns about manageability and 20       varying jury instructions regarding Duty of care, foreseeability, and proximate cause (at p. 1300).
 21       The court in Castano v. American Tobacco Company (5th Cir. 1996)] 84. F.3d 734, at 741 noted:
 22       "In a multi-state class action, variations in state law may swamp any common issues and defeat 23       prominence."

25       Mr. Lehmann string-cites dicta in Diamond Multimedia Sys. v Superior Court 19 Cal.4th 26       1036 (1999) (out-of-state shareholders of a California corporation have standing to sue under 27       the California securities law for stock manipulation done in California; Werbsha v Apple 28

1 Computer, Inc., 91 Cal. App.4th 224 (2001), review denied (involving a settlement class); and 2 Clothesrigger, Inc. v. GTE Corp., 191 Cal. App. 3d 605 (reversing a class action certification) 3 for the hope, without elaboration of certifying a 50-state class action under California law. But 4 Judge Claudia Wilken ruled in In re Abbott Labs. Norvir Antitrust Litig., 2007 WL 1689899 at 5 *4 (N.D. June 11, 2007), cited by Mr. Lehmann, ruled that “California’s Unfair Competition 6 Law does not apply to actions occurring outside of California that injure non-residents.
 7
 8 Standfacts Credit Services, Inc. v. Experian Information Solutions, Inc. 405 F. Supp.2d 1141, 9 1148 (C.D. Cal. 2005), see also Norwest Mortgage, Inc. v. Superior Court 72 Cal. App. 4th 214, 10 226 (1999).” Accord: Churchill Village, LLC v. General Electric Co. (N.D. Cal. 2000) 11 12 In Relafen Antitrust Litigation 221 F.R.D. 260 (D. Mass. 2004), cited by Mr. Lehmann, the 13 Court rejected extraterritorial application of state antitrust laws, stating (at p. 277): “the more 14 significant contact...is the location of the sales to the end payor plaintiff... Applying 15 Pennsylvania law to these wholly out-of-state transactions would be at best ‘a novelty’ and at 16 worst a violation of constitutional limitations. Bridgestone/Firestone, 288 F.3d at 1016; [Phillips
 17 Petroleum v. Shutts 472 U.S. 797, at 822, 105 S.Ct. 2956, 86 L.Ed.2d 628 (1985); In re Brand
 18 Name Prescription Drugs Antitrust Litig., 123 F.3d 599, 613 (7th Cir. 1997)” and (at p.278) 19 “States have a strong interest in protecting consumers with respect to sales within their 20 borders...but they have a relatively weak interest, if any, in applying their policies to consumers 21 or sales in neighboring states, see BMW of North America, Inc. v. Gore 517 U.S. 559, 571, 116
 22 S.Ct. 1589, 134 L.Ed.2d 809 (1996) (“[I]t is clear that no single State could ...impose its own 23 policy choice on neighboring States.”).” Thereafter the Relafen Court analyzed and excluded 24 claimants under the laws of the District of Columbia (“requires injury to each class member” at 25 p. 280), Maine (requires a separate level of evidence and proof ‘demonstrating that overcharges 26 had been passed on to consumers” at p. 281) Michigan (case law requires “a rigorous analysis of 27
 28

1 individual impact resulting in certification denials at p.281), and concluded "Because the end 2 payor plaintiffs had not made the stronger showing deemed necessary under the indirect 3 purchaser statutes of Florida, Maine, Minnesota, and Michigan payor plaintiffs from these states 4 were excluded from the exemplar classes." (at 221 F.R.D. p.283). Kansas plaintiffs were 5 excluded due to the requirement for individualized statute of limitations determinations, 6 Tennessee plaintiffs were excluded as to unfair competition claims under Tennessee case law at 7 p.284; New York claims under the Donnelly Act were excluded under case law precluding class
8 actions (at pp.284-286) and New York consumer protection act were excluded under case law 9 requiring waiver of minimum and treble damages, which raised questions as to adequacy of 10 representation. (at p.286). Having performed this rigorous analysis, the Court certified a narrow 11 class of persons who purchased Relafen in Arizona, California Massachusetts or Vermont as to 12 antitrust and consumer protection laws and Arizona, California, Massachusetts, Tennessee or 13 Vermont as to unjust enrichment. Had the excluded states had interim counsel, the result may 14 well have been different. Contrary to the rigorous analysis by the Massachusetts district court in 15 Relafen, supra, the Southern District of Florida in In re Terazosin Hydrochloride took plaintiff's 16 word for it that "Indirect Purchaser Plaintiffs have cited case law under each state antitrust law 17 interpreting the acts coextensively with the federal antitrust laws," and, certified seventeen 18 separate State-Wide Classes of drug End-Payors in Alabama [DE-453], California [DE-452], 19 Florida [DE-450]. Illinois [DE-464, Kansas [DE-463], Maine[DE-462], Michigan-DE-461] , 20 Minnesota [DE-460], Mississippi [DE-459], Nevada [DE-458, New Mexico [DE-455], New 21 York [DE-456], North Carolina [DE-454], North Dakota [DE-465, South Dakota [DE-466], 22 West Virginia [DE-467, and Wisconsin [DE-468]" while denying claims relative to the District 23 of Columbia and New Jersey.

24 In In re Pharmaceutical Industry Average Wholesale Price Litigation 233 F.R.D. 229 25
26
27
28

1 (D.Mass. 2006), the Court certified 1) a Co-Payment Class with four Subclasses with separate 2 subclass representatives for each relative to Medicare Part B co-payments, excluding residents of 3 "Alabama, Alaska, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana and Virginia 4 (where consumer protections statutes do not permit class actions." (at p.230); 2) A Third-Party 5 Payor Medigap Class with two class representatives under Massachusetts law (at p.231); and 3) 6 A Consumer and Third-Party Payor Class for Medicare Part B with Five Subclasses and two 7 class representatives. Although these are state law claims, there is an unspoken sense that the 8 claims deal with an overriding federal program: Medicare.

9 10 We support Mr. Lehmann's plan for a multi-state effort, but believe that subclassing under the 11 doctrine of "groupability" would enhance these efforts, and would also welcome the opportunity 12 to serve on a unified Executive Committee.
13

14 Mr. Lehmann cites Hanlon v. Chrysler Corporation 150 F.3d 1011 (9th Cir. 1998), which 15 involves a settlement-only class, that deals with allegedly defective rear liftgate latches that were 16 the subject of various state court actions in which counsel were separately appointed by state 17 courts for each state case. In addressing the settlement class, the Hanlon court stated:

18
19 Approximately two weeks before it announced the NHTSA-approved Service 20 Action, Chrysler and counsel from the various state actions began serious 21 settlement discussions, which continued throughout April, May and June 1995.
22 As a result of the settlement discussions, all of the state class actions were 23 Consolidated in one large national class action in federal court...Three days after 24 filing the case, the parties submitted a settlement agreement to the court for 25 approval.."

26 Thus, in Hanlon, supra, the cases proceeded as state cases under the jurisdiction of state courts 27 with counsel appointed for each state's claimants by the state courts. It was not until a settlement 28

1 was achieved that a consolidated federal complaint was filed and the only class certification was 2 for the settlement class. Because of these facts, variances in state law were not a factor since a 3 settlement was achieved without motion practice or trial addressing state law variations.

4       In re Cardizen CD Antitrust Litigation 218 F.R.D. 508, 518 (E.D. Mich. 2003) involves the 5 certification of a settlement class in which the Court states at p. 518: “Confronted with a request 6 for settlement-only class certification, a district court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, 7 would present intractable management problems...” citing Amchem Prods., Inc v. Windsor, 521 8 U.S. 591, 619, 117 S.Ct. 2231, 138 L.Ed.2d 689 (1997). Since manageability is a key reason for 9 a rigorous evaluation as to the variation in state claims and subclassing by “groupability,” 10 Cardizen, supra, which by-passed the manageability issue is inapposite. The cases cited by Mr.
 11 Lehmann,<sup>1</sup> that have distinguished Amchem, supra, are generally settlement cases where 12 manageability is not an issue. By contrast we are at the inception of this case where the Court 13 can use its discretion to reduce potential conflicts and enhance the manageability of this case by 14 inclusion of diversity in the range of counsel and by subclassing.

15       Likewise, In re Warfarin Sodium Antitrust Litigation 212 F.R.D. 231 (D.Del. 2002) is a 16 settlement-only class certification. In Warfarin, supra, the Court stressed that because a 17 settlement class is different, it requires no subclassing of claims, stating at p. 251:“While some 18 courts in similar cases have certified consumers and TPPs as separate classes or subclasses, there 19 does not appear to be any compelling reason to require separate classes or subclasses here in the 20 context of settlement.”

21
 22
 23
 24
 25       <sup>1</sup> Denney v. Deutsche Bank AG, 443 F.3d 253, 268-69 (2d Cir. 2006) (RICO settlement); Uhl v. Thoroughbred Technology & Telecommunications, Inc., 309 F.3d 978, 986 (7th Cir. 2002)(settlement); In re Diet Drugs Prods. Liability Litig., 282 F.3d 220, 230-231 (3d Cir. 2002)(settlement); Joel A. v. Giuliani, 218 F.3d 132, 139-40 (2d Cir. 2000)(settlement); In re Phenylpropanolamine (PPA) Product Liability Litig., 227 F.R.D. 553, 562-63 (W.D. Wash. 2004).

1 Mr. Lehmann cites Schumacher v. Tyson Fresh Meats, Inc. 221 F.R.D.605 (D.S.D. 2004), but 2 the primary claim in that case for beef price overcharges was for unfair or deceptive practices of 3 the federal Packers and Stockyards Act (“PSA”) 7 U.S.C.A. sec. 181-229 with a secondary claim 4 of unjust enrichment. The Court certified a settlement class relative to a federal claim under the 5 PSA as well as a secondary claim for unjust enrichment. In re Abbott Labs. Norvir Antitrust 6 Litig., 2007 WL 1689899 at *4 (N.D. June 11, 2007), cited by Mr. Lehmann, involved a federal 7 Sherman Act monetary claim to which various state claims were appended, which is doubtless 8 the reason no separate representation for state subclasses was even discussed. Moreover, in the 9 absence of a motion, it is unlikely that a court will reach out and appoint state subclass counsel.
 10

11 Mr. Lehmann seems to imply that even if the variation among state antitrust laws and 12 consumer protection statutes were too great for certification, solace could be found in the unjust 13 enrichment claims alone. Doubtless, California claimants would prefer the protection of a 14 California Cartwright Act subclass. But unjust enrichment claims, as in Schumacher, supra, are 15 generally back-up secondary claims to more substantial statutory claims such as the federal PSA, 16 and unjust enrichment claims only provide for restitution. (Rest. Restitution sec.1; Kossian v.
 17 American Nat. Ins. Co. (1967) 254 Cal. App.2d 647, by contrast to treble damages under the 18 California Cartwright Act, Bus. & Prof. C. Sec. 16750 et seq. However, Klay v. Humana, Inc., 19 supra,cited, cited by Mr. Lehmann, specifically rejected an attempt to restate the state claims as 20 unjust enrichment claims as being merely an alternative statement of the non-certified state 21 claims. (at p. 1267).

22 It is respectfully requested that the Court grant the Motion To Appoint Interim Class Counsel 23 For the California Indirect Purchasers Subgroup.

5

6       First, class counsel's competency and adequacy is presumed absent specific proof to the 7 contrary. Farley v. Baird, Patrick & Co., Inc. 1992 WL 321632*5 (S.D.N.Y. 1992).

8       Second, Mr. Girardi, former President of the International Academy of Trial Lawyers and of the 9 American Board of Trial Advocates, who has tried over 100 jury cases to conclusion, has been

10 appointed lead counsel in numerous class action cases. The most notable is the Sempra Energy

11 case on behalf of the rate payers of California, which resolved two months into trial for $1.87

12 Billion, personally negotiated by Mr. Girardi with the Chairman of Sempra Energy. Before that,

13 Mr. Girardi was lead attorney in the El Paso Natural Gas case, which was also brought in behalf 14 of California rate payers, which settled for $1.5 Billion. (See Curriculum Vitae of Thomas V.

15 Girardi attached as Ex. B to the Declaration of Lingel H. Winters In Support of Motion to 16 Appoint Interim Class Counsel For the California Indirect Purchasers Subgroup). Mr. Girardi is

17 the senior partner of Girardi & Keese, a 21 member plus Los Angeles trial law firm with a wide

18 range and depth of class action experience. For instance, Mr. Girardi's partner, J. Paul Sizemore,

19 Esq. is a member of the Bextra/Celebrex MDL – Plaintiff's Steering Committee and Expert

20 Chair of the Vioxx MDL-Science. Another of Mr. Girardi's partners, Howard Miller, specializes

21 in Antitrust, Unfair Competition and Intellectual Property litigation. Further, as a Los Angeles

22 based law firm, Girardi & Keese extend the base of California representation to Southern 23 California.

24

25       Lingel H. Winters was a member of the plaintiff's Executive Committee in In re Microsoft I-V

26 Cases J.C.C.P. No. 4106, 135 Cal. App.4th 706, which settled for a recovery valued at $1.1

27

1 Billion.<sup>2</sup> He has tried numerous high technology cases, including a 3 ½ month patent-antitrust 2 trial in this district and been on the steering committee of various other antitrust cases.
3 Technologies litigated by Mr. Winters include dual slope analog to digital converters, computers 4 and software, semiconductors, accelerometers used as sensors for controlling missiles and 5 aircraft, equipment for manufacturing semiconductors, medical applications, fire detectors used 6 on the Boeing 727, and intrusion detection sensors. (See Resume attached as Ex. C to the 7 Declaration of Lingel H. Winters In Support Of Motion To Appoint Interim Class Counsel For 8 the California Indirect Purchasers Subgroup). Girardi & Keese and Winters submit that they have 9 the experience and qualifications to serve as interim class counsel for the California Subgroup of 10 Indirect Purchasers.

13 | CONCLUSION

14 It is respectfully requested that the Court grant the Motion To Appoint Interim Class Counsel 15 For the California Indirect Purchasers Subgroup, and/or appoint Girardi & Keese and Winters to
